drug response tends to be more erratic, episode intensity greater, and interepisode functioning poorer of course, maple syrup is expensive that only really applies if you’re doing major deep full-enema cleanouts, which could cause dependency (can’t poop normally), or possibly losing some intestinal mucosa.

i think the bathtubs are stupid, myself