this deeper, intense almost pinching itch begins usually one or two days following a burn and those who experience it feel as though they are going crazy as its intensity is nearly unbearable.